

"I am a dedicated Servant Leader who is perpetuating a sorely needed concept - Servant-Leaders as role models in elementary schools. I am devoted to planting seeds of dignity and respect in children and inspiring them to cultivate those seeds producing a crop of unprecedented success. I will teach reading, writing and arithmetic and progress to self-esteem, imagination and determination. Because of my immeasurable promise, not only have I earned your respect, I demand it! A title is only important if ones' character and integrity dictate its use. When you address me, please verbalize my destiny... please do not call me by my first name... call me in reference to my great vision... call me MISTER!"

MISTER Corey Hollis, current USCB student, is enrolled as an Early Childhood Education major. MISTER Hollis was born on February 8, 1994 in Columbia, South Carolina. Upon graduating from High School, MISTER Hollis devoted himself to becoming an Education Major at USCB.

Are You Ready for Finals?

1. Fuel Your Body: It's just science. A car does not run on an empty tank, and your brain will not function well without adequate nutrition.
2. Arrive Early to Chat: You know what? The other students in your college classes have probably prepared pretty well for your final, too.
3. Pace Yourself: Sometimes, final exams can last three hours. Some are even longer. Sure, some are not quite as lengthy, but often, when the final exam score constitutes a large portion of your grade for the class, you can count on your final being very time-consuming.
4. Stay Focused: It's really difficult to stay focused on a grueling task, especially if you're not particularly interested in the topic or if you struggle with ADD.
5. Review, Review, Review Your Work: One of the most difficult final exam tips to get students to adopt is the review at the end, and it's the most important
